DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 12 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 12 recites the limitation "the liquid" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 12 recites the limitation "the bottom stream" in line 4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 16 recites the limitation "the liquid" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 16 recites the limitation "the bottom stream" in line 4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Objections

Claim 2 is objected to because of the following informalities: Since claims 1-8 are canceled, the claim after 9, namely claim 2, should be re-number as claim 10. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 9 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DE 10022 465 A1.

Since the DE 10022465 is equivalent to the Meyer et al. (US 2003/0181772) reference, the Examiner will use the disclosure of the Meyer reference for convenience.

Meyer discloses a process for extracting vinyl acetylene (C₄ acetylene) from a C₄ fraction. The C₄ fraction is first passed into the middle region of an extractive distillation column and a solvent is fed into the column a point above the feeding position of the C₄ fraction. A gaseous side stream comprising C₄ acetylene, butadiene, heavier hydrocarbons, and solvent is withdrawn from the extractive distillation column at a point below the feed point of the C₄ fraction. An overhead stream comprising butenes and butanes is withdrawn from the top of the first column. A bottom stream from the distillation column is then cooled and returned to the column. (See paragraphs [003], [0020], [0021], [0036], [0037], [0052], [0064], [0076] through [0083])

Meyer does not specifically teach that the concentration of acetylene in the side stream is below the spontaneous decomposition limit.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the process of Meyer by withdrawing the side stream having a low amount of acetylene as claimed because the side stream of Meyer would comprise majority of butadienes and a very small amount of acetylenes (see paragraph [0021] and Meyer also recognizes that the level of acetylene has to be low to be safe (see paragraph [003]). Therefore, it is within the level of one of skill the art to operating the process of Meyer so that the concentration of acetylenes in the side stream is low as claimed.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 (which should be claim 10), 13-15, and 17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 12 and 16 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
